"I celebrate myself, and sing myself,
and what I assume you shall assume,
For every atom belonging to me as good belongs to you."

Walt Whitman

The people who put this book together believe in the right of individualism. We feel that many of the non-school-oriented activities of many people have never been recognized. In this book we tried to place people where they wanted to be, in areas they felt were suitable to their actions. We felt this philosophy deserved every effort we could give.

For those who like more regimented yearbooks have been provided the guides below.

AFS Student from LHS

Sept. 23 — The weather has started to be chilly here. There wasn't frost last night, but we all thought there would be.

The Busck family has a house which is fairly big, but I share a room with Lena, who is 17 and in the grade below me. There is a brother, Anders, who is 14 and likes to collect stamps and coins. Mamma Busck doesn't have a job outside of home. Almost all the food is homemade and lots from the garden. Yesterday evening Pappa Busck went out to harvest the cabbages and cauliflower, since he thought there would be a frost. Lena and Mamma make almost all their own clothes. The whole family is very nice and friendly. Anders plays the recorder a little bit.

Pappa likes to go out hunting, and there are two dogs, Lata and Knorr, which are hunting dogs but are very much pets, too.

Stjarnsund is a half hour drive from Hedemora, the town in which we go to school. We go by bus, not a school bus. AFS pays for the ticket to and from school. In the morning it takes almost an hour and a half to go to school, since the bus takes such a round about route. It is country here, really beautiful fields and lakes, a little bit rolling, and the trees are starting to turn. It only takes a half hour to go home. In the morning we get the bus just a little bit away from the house as it stops to pick up mail at 7:05 or so. If we miss that, we can walk a fifth of a mile to where it stops and waits for everybody else. We get to school at around 8:30, and school begins at 8:45 and goes until 4:15. Then the bus leaves from the bus station in town, a quarter of a mile away, maybe, at 4:25, and we get home around 5. We eat at 5:30. Mamma Busck is a good cook. If I don't watch it, I'll get fat.

COMMENCEMENT

Speaker John Hough

Harry S. Merson
Superintendent of Schools

Many years of graduates, including 1971, note Mr. Merson's retirement with regret. He has been an active leader in Falmouth and is considered to be one of New England's leading progressive educators.

Evelyn M. Bryer

Others were leaving as we were graduating for well-earned retirements. Their accomplishments, like Mrs. Bryer's fashion shows featuring girls in their self-handmade clothes (above), have enriched us, and we hope have been similarly satisfying to our former teachers. Mr. Heyliger's boys have gone from his shops to constructive jobs which his teaching has helped prepare them for. Mr. Foshay's counselees can look back at him from so many corners of the earth and ways of life that he must know he has been a part of it all.

Elk For The Table

Pappa brought home half an elk last night. He and some friends had gone out hunting and gotten a calf. In the beginning of the week he brought home the heart, liver and head, skinned.

The heart mamma cooked, and we will have it sliced on smorgasa. She soaks the liver in milk before cooking it to make it taste milder. The head gets cooked up in a big kettle with vegetables, after the eyes and brain are removed. Then she takes the meat from the bones and grinds it up to make a meat sauce, which she mixes with barley, and we have for dinner. The broth she saves as a soup base.

One day when I got home from school, the head of the calf was sitting there, skinned, on the kitchen counter. I don't know where the tongue was. Pappa took a big hack saw and sawed it into pieces. The eyes wiggled and blood drooled out around the edges of the saw. I made myself watch the whole time, sort of as a test. After all, it's just biology. Pappa offered me an eye to dissect, but I declined. He threw out the eyes and brain. I thought that brains were supposed to be a delicacy, but I'm just as glad they got thrown away. The dogs got the bones.

Last night, Pappa brought home the meat. It had been hanging in someone's barn. He brought home the meat in a tub, and then the legs wrapped in paper. He and Anders hauled it upstairs and spread the meat out on a sheet of plastic on the floor in the attic, under the clothes hanging there in storage, where it is cold. Mamma said that we would put it in the barn, except that there are mice there.

This morning I helped Mamma wrap the meat to put in the freezer. There was a fillet weighing 2.6 kg and then 18 kg of proper steaks. She cut the meat up and put it in plastic bags, and I did them up with elastic bands, wrapped them in paper, and labeled them. It's not all done yet. Pappa figured there to be around 80 kg of meat. The rest of the meat will be even more work since it's tougher and will need to be ground or chopped up for stew meat.

Katherine Barrett Frantz '71 spent the past year in Sweden under the American Field Service's Americans Abroad Program

Horses Spoke Swedish

In the afternoon, I finally got to go horseback riding. I went with Phyl, Sue Reagan from Alaska and Ellen Rosenthal. The stable only has four horses and one pony. We rode for an hour in a big ring and could trot and canter around. It was funny. The horses only spoke Swedish.

A Walk on the Beach

At about 10 P.M., 14 of us took bicycles and rode to the sea, five kilometers. We went up to the rocks and some people started a fire. Sam Westrich and I went for a walk to the beach. First we climbed down a really steep part of the hill. We found a red frog, red like other frogs are green, which we caught and then let go. We walked out along the shore at the point and tried to walk on stones out to a big rock. I wish we could have gone swimming out to an island, just solid rock, but the water was cold, so that it made my ankles ache to walk in it. The water is barely salty at all, because of all the fresh rivers that empty into it. There wasn't any seaweed that we could see, but a little slipperiness on the wet rocks that must have been algae.

A TRIBUTE TO YOU ALL

Arne Grepstad became a unique citizen of the Falmouth community and the class of 1971, not only because of his well-known affability, but because of his respected influence on all whose lives he touched. As a member of the Dr. Harry Bowen family of Tupelo Road, Saconnessett Hills, he gained the affection and admiration of the townspeople of Falmouth. Thus he fostered the spirit of international good will for his native Norway and the community of nations which the American Field Service Exchange Program seeks to establish through human understanding as a means to world peace.

The directors, officers and staff of The Falmouth National Bank join in sincere congratulations to the graduating class of 1971. We are also truly pleased to join in a very special sentiment . . . A TRIBUTE TO YOU ALL . . . appreciation for the enhancement of world peace and understanding through the devotion and dedication of the American Field Service, students, parents, and especially the hardworking faculty of Lawrence High.

To Jean Faria, President, American Field Service Club; Mrs. Richard Paine, President, American Field Service Chapter; Mrs. Franklin Towle; Mr. Eugene Phillips; Mr. Russell Marshall; Mr. DeWitt Jones and all others who helped build this new family . . . we are proud of you all . . . for only through such wholehearted participation can the hope of world peace become a reality.
